

What's new at the Centre for Effective Services

CES Quarterly Ezine
September 2017

Hello and welcome to the Autumn issue of our Ezine!

In this issue, you can read about new developments in our work supporting public service reform in Ireland and Northern Ireland. '15 Days', a new report from the Youth Mental Health Pathfinder project is one of the first resources to emerge from this work and will be of interest to policy makers across Ireland who are dealing with complex problems which need strong collaboration.

The Leaders Digest is our new blog series for leaders in public services in Ireland and Northern Ireland. Take a look at the first issue and sign up to receive future instalments directly to your inbox.

You can also read about a recent masterclass we ran for groups on the Big Lottery Fund Reaching Out Supporting Families Programme, and catch up on new developments in the Children's Research Network.

Keep in touch with us on LinkedIn and Twitter and you can contact us at office@effectiveservices.org.

'15 Days' – a story about collaborative problem solving in public services

How do you involve a range of busy public servants in something which aims to make an impact on a complex problem in a short space of time?

Read more

Engaging vulnerable families - a Masterclass in Northern Ireland

How to empower vulnerable families in Northern Ireland to respond to a range of challenges was a key theme emerging from a Masterclass with groups on the Big Lottery Fund Reaching Out Supporting Families Programme in early September.

Read more

The Goal Programme - Supporting public services in Ireland and Northern Ireland

Watch this short video about the Goal Programme – a new phase of our work which began in 2015. We are working with six government departments in Ireland and Northern Ireland to support them to implement nine new projects.

To watch the video, click here

Towards a National Framework for Recovery in Mental Health

The development of a National Framework for Recovery in Mental Health is one of 29 high priority national projects currently being managed by the HSE Mental Health Division. We are supporting the Mental Health Division to develop a Framework that can be implemented by mental health services around the country.

Read more

CES Leaders Digest - Learning about leadership in public services

Read the first instalment in the CES Leaders Digest, our new blog series for leaders in public services in Ireland and Northern Ireland Read more

News from the Children's Research Network

The Children's Research Network recently launched several new offers to its members as well as a new research mentoring programme for practitioners and people new to children's research. Read more

What's new online

Four new resources we think you'll like, including a framework for services, to help identify areas for improvement, and some new co-production resources from Scotland. Read more

CES connects policy, practice and research, helping to ensure the implementation of effective services, to improve the lives of people across the island of Ireland. Please feel free to forward our ezine.

Visit our Website